

life episteme

innovation to care

PROF. ANTONIO DANIELE
LIFE EPISTEME Advisory Board member

Medical Doctor cum laude (1984);
Neurologist cum laude (1988);
PhD in Neuroscience (1994);
Post-Doctoral course in Neuroscience (1996-1997);

Assistant Clinical Professor (2001-2006);

Assistant Research Professor (2006-present) at the Institute of Neurology, Catholic University, Rome.

Since 1998, teaching Neurology and Neuropsychology (Medical School, Post-graduate residents in Neurology, PhD students) at the Catholic University.

His scientific achievements include a new treatment strategy based upon the administration of the drug zolpidem in Parkinson's disease (Lancet 1997, 349:1222-1223) and Progressive Supranuclear Palsy (New England Journal of Medicine, 1999;341:543-544).

Author of 201 publications, including 90 full-length publications on books and medical journals (New England Journal of Medicine, Lancet, Lancet Neurology, Brain, Biological Psychiatry, Annals of Neurology, Neurology, Archives of Neurology, Cortex, Neurobiology of Aging, Neuroimage, Journal of Neurology, Neurosurgery and Psychiatry, Movement Disorders).

Reviewer for several medical journals, including the New England Journal of Medicine.